2 CARS CRASH IN ATTEMPT TO AVOID ACCIDENT

Two "innocent bystanders" collided Sunday afternoon at 2:40 o'clock six miles south of here on the Emmitsburg road. The crash came as both attempted to avoid an accident with other cars.

As state police reconstructed the scene, Harry J. Carbaugh, Fayetteville R. 1, was driving north with another car following him. Mary McMahon, Toronto, Canada, was driving south, following another car. The car behind Carbaugh started to pass in the face of oncoming traffic, and the car ahead of Miss McMahon pulled to its right to avoid a collision.

Carbaugh, seeing what was happening, attempted to pull to his right, while Miss McMahon, to avoid hitting both the car ahead of her and the one passing Carbaugh's car, twisted her car to the left.

Carbaugh and McMahon crashed and the car making the pass that started all the trouble continued on its way without stopping. Damage totalled $100.

$250 Crash Saturday

Another auto crash investigated by state police over the week-end involved a miscalculation on the part of one of the drivers. It occurred Saturday evening at 6:20 o'clock one mile east of Caledonia on the Lincoln highway.

State police said that Charles W. Kauffman, Jr., 19, Fayetteville R. 2, was driving his father's car east on the three lane highway and planned to turn into a driveway. Kauffman saw a car driven by Herbert O. Sarnowsky, 42, Philadelphia, and owned by L. Gertrude Johnson, Ridley Park, headed toward him on the west bound lane. Kauffman stopped in the center lane to permit Sarnowsky to go on the north lane.

Sarnowsky told police he saw Kauffman attempting the pass and thought he would complete it, so he swung to the right and smashed into the halted Kauffman car in the center lane. After the crash the Sarnowsky car continued on to the opposite side road, skidded sideways across the three-lane highway, went down into a ditch and continued backwards for 60 feet before coming to a stop. Damage totalled $250. State police are continuing their investigation.

HIGHWAY WORK IS ADVANCING

Two highway projects in eastern Adams county are close to completion and detours will be removed soon.

The Hanover-Carlisle highway, closed from Cross Keys to the East Berlin-Heidersburg road north of Hampton during the past several months, probably will be opened to through traffic within a week, J. William Kendeheart, Jr., Gettysburg, superintendent of the state highways in Adams county, reported today.

Placing of the black-top finish was completed on the Cross Keys-to-Heidersburg road section Friday and final work on the project will be finished in a few days.

No Opening Date

Work on the road relocation and widening project from the western edge of McSherrystown through Brushtown, including elimination of two right-angle turns at which many accidents occurred in the past, is progressing. Laying of the final surface was started Thursday but was halted by a breakdown of equipment on Friday. This part of the project is expected to be resumed next week. A date for opening of the road has not been announced.

A detour continues on the Hanover-Dillsburg road through East Berlin. A concrete floor is being placed on the Conewago creek bridge at the north end of East Berlin by Contractor W. H. Drawbaugh, Dover. Drawbaugh also has the contract for placing a concrete floor on the Conewago bridge near New Chester.

Superintendent Kendeheart's maintenance crew will start resurfacing and widening the Littlestown-Westminster highway from Littlestown to the Maryland line next week. The road will be widened from 18 to 22 feet.

Minor Collisions Are Reported Here

Borough police investigated two accidents Sunday, according to the "call sheet" kept by the local officers. At 11:00 o'clock Sunday morning autos operated by Mrs. H. H. Cooper, Amarillo, Texas, north on West Conefederate avenue and Maurice Kump, Dauphin, west on West Middle street, collided at an intersection. Damage totalled $75.

At 3:35 o'clock Sunday afternoon, cars operated by Iryna Tremblov, Orttanna, and R. Claire Wolf, Biglerville, collided on Lincoln Square. Damage to the two cars was put at $22.

URGES FARMERS TO JOIN STATE CORN CONTEST

Adams county farmers who wish to join the Pennsylvania Corn club, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Crop Improvement association, should fill out registration blanks available at the office of the county farm agent at the court house Tuesday. Assistant County Agent Ira N. Dumire said today.

The club is formed to give recognition to those persons producing sound corn at not less than 75 bushels per acre, demonstrating proper seed bed and root bed preparation, and use of an adapted hybrid or variety, the intelligent use of soda, manure and commercial fertilizer, adequate plant population and efficient cultivation or weed control.

A blue ribbon will be presented to those farmers who secure 150 bushels or more per acre from their fields, a red ribbon for those raising between 125 and 149.9 bushels per acre, a white ribbon for those with yields of 100 to 124.9 bushels, a yellow ribbon to those with 85 to 99.9 bushels and a green ribbon to those with from 75 to 84.9 bushels per acre.

Five Acres Needed

Dumire noted that contestants must have not less than five acres of one hybrid or variety at one location on the farm. If corn is grown on contour strips, three strips may be entered provided the total corn area in contour strips is not less than five acres and provided there are two intervening strips of a close growing crop.

Yields are to be determined by harvesting a specified number of rows of two adjacent rows at ten locations within the five acre field, or at five locations in each contour strip.

The husking and weighing operations must be done in the presence of checking officials and yields will be calculated on the basis of shelled corn at 15 1/2 percent moisture and 56 pounds per bushel. Irrigation will disqualify a contestant.

White House Group Makes Final Report

The final report of the Adams County White House Conference committee will be presented to the executive group of that committee at a meeting being held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the office of the county superintendent of schools.

A report based on the findings of the various sub-committees of the White House Conference committee was drawn up by a special committee Saturday afternoon and will be presented to the executive group this afternoon for its approval or rejection. If the report is accepted, it will be sent immediately to the Governor's White House conference to be incorporated into the state report to be presented at the National White House Conference in Washington in December.

"Pennsylvania's Susquehanna" Is New Book By Mrs. Lewars

After more than four decades of writing books, many of them for young people and often in the style of the historical novel, Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars has published a new book that is entirely different from any previous work—one that has been in preparation since her childhood days.

The J. Horace McFarland company at Harrisburg has just begun distribution of a profusely illustrated volume by Mrs. Lewars bearing the title, "Pennsylvania's Susquehanna."

Containing 156 photographs of scenes along the "heart river" of Pennsylvania, the volume tells in Mrs. Lewars' best style the history and legend of the great river that drains nearly half of the Keystone state. It is a story of the people of the Susquehanna valley from the

MAY COMPLETE WORK ON CHURCH PICTURE TODAY

Filming of "For Good or Evil," the Cathedral Films-United Lutheran Church in America motion picture, continued in Arendtsville, with the crew hoping to complete the movie today.

"Shooting" of the picture took place in the office of Dr. Raymond Hale this morning. Miss Louise McDannell, of Arendtsville, and Mrs. Anna Allison were among the upper county residents participating in the scenes.

Later, the crew moved to the Arendtsville Lutheran church where additional "shots" were taken of the church council in action. Among the Arendtsville men in those scenes were Dr. Fred Lewis, David Houck, Walter Frederick, Ernest Bushman and Doctor Hale.

At Picnic Sunday

Whether the film would be completed today depended to a large extent on reports from Hollywood concerning results of processing the picture. Reports Saturday showed one scene to be slightly out of synchronization and it had to be shot again. Whether the remainder of the film shot Saturday also suffered from the same defect was unknown this morning. If the mechanism synchronizing sound and film continued out of operation the scenes Saturday will have to be retaken.

Sunday the cast and crew for the production were guests of the Arendtsville Lutheran church council at a picnic at Caledonia. Henry Endress of the ULCA, co-supervisor of the film, today expressed his appreciation to the Arendtsville residents, to Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson and Robert B. Rau for giving permission to the cast and crew to use the college swimming pool here, and to the Rev. Reginald Ditz for making the swimming pool at Camp Nawakwa available to wives of the cast and crew each afternoon.

A number of students of Gettysburg college Saturday took the part of members of the cast, as they would appear when younger, at the filming of a "graduation" at the Arendtsville high school 25 years ago. The students included Philip Leadbetter, Robert Framer, David Dickson and William Gladfelter.

TRAVEL VOLUME AT HIGH LEVEL

Visitation to the Gettysburg battlefield over the past week-end nearly equaled that of the previous week, with an estimated 8,771 touring the park on Saturday and Sunday. The previous week-end the total was 8,977.

Visitors were here from 33 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, Australia, Greece, Hawaii, Germany, Poland and Madagascar, according to the register at the National Museum. The German and the Pole were traveling in the same car.

Visitors to the field included two congressmen and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. McGregor, of West Lafayette, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey of New Castle, Ind.

Saturday 382 persons were guided over the battlefield in private cars and 123 were given guided tours in three buses. Sunday there were 160 guided tours for 589 people and one bus with 40 passengers.

The number of tours Saturday, 109, was less than the 122 recorded for the previous Saturday while the 160 Sunday exceeded the 151 listed for the same day a week previously.

The total estimated visitation Saturday was 3,611 and the estimate for Sunday was 5,160.

To Give Prizes For Historical Window Displays

Many store windows throughout the county will be transformed into miniature museums during the Adams county Sesqui-centennial celebrations August 30 to September 4, according to plans outlined today by the historical window committee of the Sesqui organization.

Walter Lane, chairman of this committee, said that more merchants are daily being listed to participate in this important feature of the Sesqui.

Suggested as suitable for the historical items connected with Adams county early days: old firearms, old photographs, attire worn years ago, ancient deeds, old furniture, farm implements, household articles and other mementos of the county's past.

Citizens of the county are asked to search their attics and basements and family heirloom collections to provide antique and historic items for display in these windows. The plan suggested to merchants is that one window be decorated with historic or antique merchandise and the opposite window with modern merchandise.

Prizes will be awarded for the best decorated historical windows as follows: first prize $25; second, $15; four prizes of $10 each; and four prizes of $5 each; total, $100.

TWO BATTLES OF BULL RUN ARE CAMPFIRE TOPIC

The two battles of Bull Run were outlined Sunday evening by James B. Myers superintendent of the Manassas National battlefield at the regular campfire program held by the Gettysburg national park on East Cemetery Hill.

In his illustrated talk, Myers told the 150 present that "Manassas National park commemorated two great battles of the Civil War fought in the vicinity of Bull Run, a small stream in northern Virginia about 25 miles southwest of Washington D. C.

"The military significance of the Manassas area lay in the junction of two railroads. The Orange and Alexandria railway, which offered the only direct rail connection between Washington and Richmond, was joined there by the Manassas Gap railroad, a direct route to the strategically important Shenandoah Valley.

Human Interest Stories

"The opening battle of the war found ill-trained citizen armies of the North and South engaged in a struggle for this strategic railroad junction. On an eminence known as Henry House hill, six miles north of Manassas, Confederate arms finally put to rout the federal force.

"This victory on July 21, 1861 was important because it led the Southern politicians to under estimate the fighting capacity of the North and because it so alarmed Lincoln and his government that from that time on until 1864, east of the Alleghenies, the defense of Washington became the pivot of Northern strategy.

"Approximately a year later, August 29-30, 1862, both armies, now composed of seasoned veterans, were locked in a bitter struggle on the same field. After heavy fighting, the Federal army was forced back upon the defenses of Washington. Second Manassas stands with Chancellorsville as one of the two most significant victories of the war—in both cases the military result was invasion of the North. After second Manassas came Antietam; after Chancellorsville came Gettysburg."

He illustrated his talk with slides showing scenes at Bull Run.

Next Sunday evening, the third in the series of Campfires will be held with Dr. Frederick Tilberg and J. Melchior Sheads speaking on "Human Interest Stories of the Battle of Gettysburg."

CARGAS IMPROVES

James P. Cargas, former operator of the Majestic Soda plant here, is reported improved after suffering a heart attack and paralysis of the left side two weeks ago at his home in Charleston, S. C. He has resided in Charleston for the last five years.

By RELMAN MORIN
Tokyo, Tuesday, August 1 (AP)—Troops of the U. S. Second Infantry division under Maj. Gen. Laurence B. Keiser landed with tanks in Korea Monday and sped forward to help brace shrinking Allied lines.
General MacArthur's headquarters said the North Korean Reds in force were shifting their pressure from the central sector to the west and southwest.
The Communists captured Chinju, 55 miles west of Pusan, vital U. S. base. Associated Press Correspondent Hal Boyle reported from outside Chinju that the Americans withdrew from the coastal anchor to new positions less than 50 miles from Pusan.

Direct From U. S.
Arriving direct from the United States, many of the new troops headed out in trucks to plug holes punched by North Korean Reds along a rectangular front before Pusan, on the southeast coast.

Up to 200,000 men were reported in the big Red surge against the shrinking defense area.

In the central front new pressure was put on Kunchon. But a U. S. First Cavalry spokesman there said the city "will be held at all costs."

He said the troops had been forced back slightly to the east, however. Kunchon is 32 miles northwest of Taegu, rail city northwest of Pusan.

MacArthur, Chiang Talk
As the decisive battle raged, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his top advisers flew to Formosa to talk with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, National Chinese leader. Chiang has offered 33,000 foot soldiers and some air force units to MacArthur, United Nations commander.

His visit followed a Chinese Nationalist air raid on 500 Red China junks assembling for a possible blow at Quemoy, Nationalist island near Amoy.

The Korean fighting now is spread over a rough rectangle. It extends 80 miles up the east coast from Pusan to Yongdok, thence west 70 miles to Hamchang, 100 miles due south from Hamchang to the vicinity of Chinju. Spread thinly through the mountains and valleys are three U. S. divisions—The First Cavalry and the 24th and 25th Infantry Divisions, the U. S. Fifth Air Force and fighting South Koreans.

Yank Pilots Strafe Reds
Dispatches from the front said many Communist dead were strewn on the battlefield. Their own trucks raced over the bodies, trying to reach new positions against the Americans.

At least two Red divisions led the powerful flanking movement around Chinju. Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army in Korea, ordered his men two days ago to fight or die in their present positions.

U. S. pilots strafed the Reds, claiming to have killed many. Bodies were described as littering the field "like confetti."

There was one break-through at Kochang, 45 miles southwest of Taegu, emergency capital of South Korea. U. S. forces there reportedly withdrew intact.

BELGIAN KING MAY DELEGATE ROYAL POWERS

Brussels, Belgium, July 31 (AP)—Premier Jean Duvieusart declared today that King Leopold has offered to temporarily delegate his royal powers to crown Prince Baudouin.

The premier said the king made the offer on condition the opposition Socialist withdrew their political and economic demands and make them later through parliamentary channels.

This announcement came after 1-10 Duvieusart and Socialist leader May Buset had conferred with Leopold this morning at Laeken palace.

Civil War Threatens
The king's decision was disclosed as the crisis over his return from exile ten days ago threatened to plunge the nation into civil war. The vanguard of an army of anti-Leopoldists was reported already marching on Brussels. Three anti-Leopoldists were killed by gendarmes last night in Liege. This climax a wave of violence and strikes which had paralyzed the nation's economy.

Buset had hinted before going to the palace that the hour of Leopold's abdication was close at hand.

The grim-faced opposition party president called the harassed monarch for the first time today in his guarded palace in suburban Laeken. Before going he reminded reporters that previously he had said he should visit Leopold only in connection with his abdication.

Ready Abdicator
Socialist leader Paul-Henri Spaak told reporters he thought Buset would get what he wanted—Leopold's abdication. But, he implied, it might take time.

If that happened, Spaak said, it might be too late to avert a recurrence of last night's bloody riot in which three people were killed at Liege. "Something must be done by this afternoon," said "or we may all be overtaken by events."

Excited crowds, aroused by newspaper reports prematurely announcing that Leopold had decided to step down to avert civil war, milled around Socialist headquarters.

Erect Marker To John Myers, Veteran

A marble stone marking the grave of John Myers, a volunteer of the War of 1812, was placed Wednesday afternoon in Wildans graveyard, near Hanover, 116 years after the soldier was buried.

A great grandson, Dr. Albert Cook Myers, of Moylan, formerly of York Springs, arranged for the marker to be placed. Mrs. Harvey W. Knouse, Bendersville, and Mrs. Elizabeth D. Wierman, Arendtsville, are great granddaughters of the War of 1812 veteran.

Placing of the stone carried out a project conceived by Dr. Myers 50 years ago when he was a college student and the grave was pointed out to him by his aunt, Mrs. William Mowery, of Littlestown.

John Myers resided in Penn township and at the age of 30 marched off with the Hanover Volunteers to the defense of Baltimore after the burning of Washington. The company of 45 men engaged the British at the battle of North Point.

DEL ENNIS' BAT HELPS PHILLIES STRETCH LEAD

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

When the time comes to vote for the National league's most valuable player, please don't overlook one Del Ennis.

Sure, the three bonus pitchers—Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Bob Miller—have come through indomitably. The trio owns 36 victories. Roberts won his 13th game yesterday as the Phils swept a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-0 and 4-2.

Every Philly has done his bit. But the final analysis, it has been Ennis and his big bat who has put the Phils in first place—and is keeping them there.

His Homer Decided It
The 25-year-old native of Philadelphia has been the batting terror in the league in the Phils' current one-day stay. In the Phils' last eight games, of which they've won seven, Ennis has clubbed enemy pitching for 13 hits in 30 times at bat.

Except for driving in seven runs in a pair of home runs, a double and a single, Ennis had a somewhat mild afternoon yesterday. His slam homer in the eighth inning of the opener was just added as a bonus to his previous success in the eighth inning to clinch a four-run rally that overcame a 2-0 lead by the Pirates held by Ernie.

Yanks Gain On Tigers
While the Phils were increasing their National league lead, the New York Yankees moved to within two percentage points of the American league's pace-setting Detroit Tigers. The Yankees swept both ends of a doubleheader from Chicago's White Sox, 15-7 and 4-3.

The Tigers were forced to come on behind to outlast the Philadelphia Athletics, 12-10. They spotted the A's a 7-2 lead, then came up with eight runs in the fifth. Vic Foltz banged his 20th homer for Detroit and George Kell drove in four runs with three hits. Nevertheless, they lost a half game to the Yankees.

Cleveland's third place Indians fell to games off the pace, splitting a doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox. The Indians won the opener, 5-0, but the Sox won the nightcap, 3-0.

Washington swept a twin bill from the St. Louis Browns, 9-5 and 1-0. Home runs by Sam Rice and Noren featured the Nats' first game triumph. An eight-run uprising in the ninth won the nightcap.

First Error For "Red"
Three National league contenders, the St. Louis Cardinals, Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers all won. The Cards snapped New York's inept game winning streak, whipping the Giants, 6-3.

The Braves wrested third place from the Dodgers by three percentage points with a double win over Cincinnati, 4-2, and 10-0. Johnny Antonelli, $70,000 bonus youngster, costed his first victory of the season for the Braves with the five-hit shutout in the nightcap.

Brooklyn beat Bob Rush for the fifth straight time as Don Newcombe buried a five-hitter over the Cubs with a 7-2 win. Homers by Pee Wee Reese and Roy Compacella featured a five-run fifth inning.

The Card victory over the Giants ended in a sour note when Red Schoendienst, their flashy second baseman was charged with his first error in 58 consecutive games.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)
First baseman Nat Clinton, his bat and the league-leading Wilkes-Barre Indians can be blamed for the gloom that prevails today in the clubhouse of the Binghamton Triplets.

The Eastern league Triplets, who last week edged into shooting distance of the Indians, were nine game behind as a result of week-end losses. The Indians picked up three wins, and looked stronger than ever. Clinton took the honors yesterday as Wilkes-Barre grabbed a twin-bill from fourth-place Utica, 11-4, 5-1.

Binghamton, which had been walloped by the Indians Saturday, 9-0, dropped another at Scranton, 3-0. Yesterday's game was called in the bottom half of the seventh because of rain. The nightcap was postponed. The Hartford Chiefs took both ends of a doubleheader from the Elmira Pioneers, 5-4 and 6-0, to capture undisputed possession of third place. The fifth-place Albany Senators topped their second-division neighbors, the Williamsport Tigers, 8-4. The second game at Williamsport was rained out.

GAME CALLED OFF

The scheduled softball game between the Gettysburg girls and Mechanicsburg Navyettes here Saturday evening was not played when the Navyettes failed to appear. The local girls then played a group of local men in an exhibition game.

When Joe DiMaggio was 17 he played three games as shortstop for the San Francisco Seals.

All first division teams in the South Penn Baseball league scored victories in games played Sunday.

Pounding out 17 base blows, Rogers Herr's Gettysburg team won an easy 11-3 victory over Bonneauville on the local field. After scoring five runs in the second inning which included a steal of home by Coach Herr and another run on a balk, the locals were in command throughout. Charley Kitzmiller fanned 15 batters and set down the visitors with three hits, including a home-run by Jim Orndorff. Hess smashed out a circuit blow for Gettysburg while Herr rapped four singles.

In a wild, free hitting affair Green Springs topped Barlow 22-15 on the Green Springs diamond. The lead saw-sawed several times and in the last of the seventh inning Green Springs broke a 15-15 tie by pounding over seven runs. Shomper, Robert and J. Brennan each hit home runs for the losers. Rebert also had four singles.

The league-leading Greenmount team got back into its winning stride by defeating Brushtown 6-1 on the latter's field. J. Fische kept nine Brushtown hits widely scattered. R. Fische collected four hits for the winners while Burns posed three for Brushtown.

Clyde Little turned in another well-pitched game for Hunterstown by blanking Granite 7-0 at Hunterstown. He yielded three hits and whiffed 10. Hankey secured three of the winners' 10 safeties.

Interstate League

(By The Associated Press)

Form took a beating in the Interstate league yesterday.

The front running Wilmington Blue Rocks and the fourth place Allentown Cardinals divided in their twin bill. The second place Hagerstown Braves divided with the cellar-dwelling Sunbury Athletics. The third place Trenton Giants lost two games to the seventh place Lancaster Roses.

And to make matters complete, the sixth place York White Roses tripped the fifth place Harrisburg Senators. Allentown trounced Wilmington in their opener 9-5. The Red Birds uncorked a 14-hit attack including an inside the park homer by Fritz Marolewski.

Wilmington recovered to take the second game 3-1 as Leo Christante held the Red Birds to four hits. Hagerstown committed six errors in losing the first game of their twin bill to Sunbury 4-3. A big five-run third inning in the nightcap helped the Braves bounce back to win 10-2. Lancaster defeated Trenton 2-1 in the first game and took the nightcap 9-6. Bill Perst pitched a four-hitter in the opener. Jack Thies received credit for York's 7-3 win over Harrisburg, scattering six hits.

Tonight's schedule: Trenton at Lancaster, Wilmington at Allentown and Sunbury at Hagerstown.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
Funeral Discourse: On Saturday,
agreeably to arrangement, the Discourse on the occasion of the decease of the late President was delivered in the Presbyterian church,
by the Rev. Robert Johnston. It was chaste, nervous, and deeply interesting. The Church was crowded to overflowing. The music of the Choir was sweetly solemn; and taken in connection with the sombre
habitations in which the Church was clad, imparted deep interest to the exercises. The introductory prayer was by the Rev. Dr. Baugher, and the Benediction by the Rev. Mr.
Ziegler. The Stores and most places of business in the borough were closed from 10 to 2 o'clock.

Married: On the 25th inst., by the Rev. J. L. Schock, Mr. Jesse Nunnemaker, to Miss E. Rhodes—all of this county.

In Baltimore, on Thursday, the 25th inst., by Rev. Mr. Slicer, Mr.
George H. Little, of Gettysburg, Pa., to Miss Mary S. Crapster, of Carroll county, Md.

In York, on the 22d inst., by Rev.
D. H. Emerson, Mr. Samuel Geisel-man, to Miss Sarah Spahr—both of East Berlin.

The Census: We learn that James
A. Thompson, of the Borough, Samuel Durbrow and Lewis Norbeck, of Mountjoy township, John C. Ellis, of New Oxford, and Mr. Myers, of Conowago township, have been appointed Assistant Marshals to take the Census of Adams County.

Whig County Convention: The
delegates to the Whig Convention
met at the Court-house on Monday.
Col. J. D. Paxton was called to the Chair, and R. G. McCreary and
J. R. Duffield, Esqs., were appointed Secretaries.

A Whig County Committee
was appointed. The members from Gettysburg are A. R. Stevenson, Esq., Dr. D. Horner, Col. S. S. McCreary
and D. A. Buehler.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Death of Gen. Pickett: Maj.
General G. E. Pickett, of the Rebel army, died at Norfolk, Virginia, on Sunday night, aged 50 years. He was educated at West Point, served with distinction in the Mexican war
and at the outbreak of the Rebellion, cast his lot with the South. At Gettysburg on the third day, he led
the famous charge, with 18,000 men,
against the left wing of the Union
line. Emerging from Seminary Hill,
he swept across the field, a distance
of three-fourths of a mile in face of a terrible fire of musketry and grape and reached the line held by the Union troops. A terrific hand-to-hand conflict ensued.

His three Brigadiers were disabled—
Garnett killed, Armistead mortally wounded, Kemper badly wounded and captured. The remnant of the shattered column fled back to the Seminary ridge over a field strewn with wounded, dead and dying. This ended the battle of Gettysburg. The same night Lee commenced his retreat and next morning, July 4th,
the Union colors floated in triumph
over the town.

Married: Snyder-Sellers.—On the 30th inst., in this place, by Rev.
M. Kieffer, D.D., Mr. Wm. F. Snyder
to Miss Mary Sellers, both of Littlestown.

Rev. Robert F. McClean is to preach in the Presbyterian church,
in this place, on Sunday, as one of the supplies from Presbytery.

Gettysburg Trotting Association:
The attendance on Friday and Saturday at the races was fair. The liberal premiums offered by the Association brought together a large number of very fine horses from this and adjoining States. The trotting was first class. . . . Good order was preserved on the grounds. . . . The horse was certainly very recklessly
driven, and the Judges distanced
him in the 245 and 235 races for foul driving. This decision was satisfactory to every person present except the owner of the horse. In short the first meeting of the Gettysburg Trotting Association was a successful one, and for this we are in-

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE DAY IS FOR WONDER

The day is all vitality. Movement, insects, animals, birds, man—all
astir, in tasks of life, hurrying,
seeking for food and recreation,
change, the extracting of a little joy, and the fulfillment of duties in the hope for security and happiness
as age creeps on.

The day is for the ripening of grains, the cultivating of products
from vast lands. It is for strengthening of the body, and clearing of the mind in healthful outdoor observation. The day is for wonder over so many manifestations of the Supreme Will over all—even the tiniest of creatures. A purpose behind all.

The day is for the Sun to get in its life-giving work, for the clouds
to form, and for the winds to cool
the atmosphere. It is for the show
of shadows, color, and the proud display of all beauty. It is the song-time for birds. The day is for the translation of Nature's language
into poetry and living prose.

There is so much to every day—
its opening after our hours of restful slumber, its promise, and its hope. Look to the day with gaiety of mood and inward purpose. Let yesterday rest forever in its little groove. You have your day. Keep it full to the brim with the wonder of existence!

Darken not your day with fears and regrets. Note the best and the wholesome about you and make a picture of it within your heart. Radiate each blessed emotion, and cream
it so that each shall be attractive,
giving zest and joy to every human contact. Keep giving yourself away!
Only thus can the day be full of wonder, and the night approach
with velvet draperies to bless your soul.

Oh, there is so much of beauty,
grandeur, and hope hidden for discovery in every day of our lives.
All we have to do is to keep in high heart, to keep our eyes set upon every opportunity to serve and be useful. Living is earning, and what you earn and give away is the sum total of your success.

"Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject, 'The Night Is for Humility.'"

Just Folks

THE BETTER SIDE
That there are evil men about
The crimes reported leave
no doubt.

But all the sin and lust is less Than love and faith and graciousness
And everything that's fine and good
That mark the humblest
neighborhood.

More people to the churches go
Than those who seek the places
low;

More people strive to do
what's right,
To keep their homes aglow
with light,
Stay clean of hand and pure
of heart
Than those who think that sin
is smart.

The many who the high road
choose
Are not a source of startling
news.

'Tis not the many, but the few
Who shame mankind by what they do,
Despite what cynics write
or say
But few are they who go astray.

CONGRESS IS SET TO BOOST INCOME TAXES

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Congress is set to increase income taxes. But how closely it follows President Truman's recommendations for a tax
boost may hinge on the Korean war
situation in the next week or so.

If the battle turns definitely in favor of United States forces, there will be considerable sentiment for postponing an increase in individual taxes until the beginning of the new year.

The President recommended that the tax boost for individuals become effective October 1 and that the increase in corporation taxes go back to cover all of 1950.

Some Objections
If the Korean situation doesn't improve there will be heavy pressure for quick action.

Congressmen also look for increased demands that excess-profits taxes be levied at an early date. In that case, all profits above a certain level set by law would go to the U. S. Treasury.

Many members of Congress don't like the idea of making the increased taxes for individuals effective as soon as October 1. They would like to give the taxpayer more time to get set.

If the individual tax raise becomes effective October 1, the American taxpayer may have a double headache making out his 1950 returns—due by March 15. One jolt of course, would be the increase in tax payments.

More Complications
Besides having to pay more taxes
he might have a lot of extra work
cut out for him.

Making out a return would be extra complicated if the taxpayer had to figure the tax on his income from January 1 to October 1 at present rates and then calculate the tax on his income from October 1 to December 31 at increased rates.

The present rates on the first $2-000 of surtax net income—or income after deductions and exemptions—is 16.60 per cent. The new rate proposed by President Truman is 20 per cent. So the proposed increase is 3.40 per cent.

A Hard Way and An Easy One
The hard way to make out a return in that case would be to figure 16.60 per cent of income from January 1 to October 1 and 20 per cent of income from October 1 to December 31.

There is a simpler way which in most taxpayers' cases would produce the same amount of tax. That would be to apply one-fourth of the 3.40 per cent increase, or .85 per cent increase to the whole year's income.

That .85 per cent added to the present 16.60 per cent tax would be 17.45. If the taxpayer were allowed to figure his tax by 17.45 per cent
of his income for the entire year,
he would have only one set of calculations instead of two.

Of course, the 17.45 per cent figure is only a proposed tax.

GUARDSMEN STUDY COMBAT

Indiantown Gap, Pa., July 31 (AP)— Combat problems were the order of the day today for some 10,000 troops
of the 28th Division, Pennsylvania National Guard, now undergoing summer training here.

The troops, opening a rigorous
two-week training session on the military reservation, separated into small units and studied combat tactics.

The guardsmen assembled for a rally and parade yesterday and heard a plea from their commander,
Maj. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler, of Lancaster, to prepare well for "whatever lies ahead."

"We do not know if and when we may be called upon for federal service," Strickler told the troops in a brief address, "but we do know that we must lose no time in getting ourselves in the best state of readiness possible."

The training program this week
will include small arms and artillery
practice, as well as small unit tactical
problems and technical training.
Next week, the troops will swing into larger operations to be highlighted by a three-day mock battle using blank ammunition.

Next Sunday, the troops will hold their annual "Governor's Day" parade in honor of James H. Duff.

HUSBAND HELD

Downingtown, Pa., July 31 (AP)—A 61-year-old man was held by police
for questioning today in connection with the death of his wife. Peter Bennett reported yesterday his wife,
Virginia, died as he tried to aid her
when she returned home scantily
clad and near collapse from stab

Not Too Late to Sow Seed of Fast Growing Flowers

Left to right, single marigolds, carnation flowered, and chrysanthemum flowered.

It is not too late to sow flower seeds in the garden. By choosing varieties which germinate quickly
and grow fast, flowers may be had almost as soon as from seeds sown
much earlier, which have been delayed by cold weather.

For best results seeds should be sown where the plants are to grow,
so they will suffer no set back from transplanting. Special precautions
should be taken to prevent crustings
of the soil, and drying out.

Loosen the soil to a depth of several inches. Mix small seeds with dry sand to help scatter them well.
Large seeds of plants which need plenty of room may be sown two or three seeds in each spot where a plant is wanted, to be thinned out later to a single plant. Cover the seeds lightly with porous soil containing no clay. A special covering soil may be prepared by mixing fine
top soil, and peat with an equal amount of sand. Keep the soil moist by sprinkling with a fine spray until the seeds germinate and the plants begin to grow well.

There is an attractive list of annuals which will germinate in 5 to 10 days from the time of sowing,
and flower in 30 to 40 days more.
These include:
Sweet Alyssum, Amaranthus, An-
thrinum (snapdragon), Aster, Cal-
endula, Calliopsis, Candytuft, Cel-
sia, Centaurea, Cheiranthus, Cos-mos, Dianthus, California Poppy, Godetia, Linaria, Lobelia, Lupins, Marigolds, Nicotiana (flowering tobacco), Annual Phlox, Portulaca, Mignonette, Schizanthus, Viola, Zin-
nia and Nasturtium.

When the seedlings appear, thin
out a single plant, and transplant
the discards elsewhere. The plants which grow undisturbed will flower
first. Be sure to give flowers plenty of room; they suffer from overcrowding, producing smaller and fewer flowers.

Flowers which are grown in the vegetable garden should be planted
just as vegetables are, and given the same care. Those of upright growth, which keep their place and do not sprawl out of line and against their neighbors are best for this use. Marigolds, zinnias, calendula, cosmos, cen-taurea, nicotiana are examples.

Facts About Corn Borers

Many readers are reporting heavy damages inflicted this summer to garden sweet corn by the European corn borer. In several cases inexperienced growers do not recognize the foe, in others it is confused with corn ear worm and other caterpillars, such as the dahlia borer.

The following general facts are offered to assist gardeners and farmers to gain better acquaintance with this invader and to practice more effective prevention and control
measures:
There are two main groups of
corn borers in the United States,
one having but a single brood each summer, the other producing two and sometimes three full broods.
In most of the Corn Belt states the single-brood predominates, but in most of the truck crop regions of the East and Northeast the multiple-brood borers to attack Lima beans, beets, potatoes, hollyhocks,
dahlia, chrysanthemums and many other thick-stemmed crops, ornamentals and weeds. All damage is done by the pale-colored worm,
slightly pinkish and indistinctly
dotted, with a dark brown to blackish head.

Of course, sweet corn, field corn,
and pop corn remain the favorite
host plants of the corn borer.
Therefore, combat and prevention measures should be centered chiefly
around these three preferred crops,
with precautions directing clean-up
efforts toward all other largestemmed weeds and ornamentals likely to harbor the over-wintering larvae.
As just stated, the European corn
borer lives over winter as a larva (worm or caterpillar) dormant in the stalk it inhabited in late summer and early fall. If this survivor is killed before late spring the egg-laying moth population is proportionately reduced the next year. To this end several steps are recommended:

1. Cut all corn stalks low, as near the ground as possible, and utilize them in silage, plow them under cleanly, or feed to livestock where they will be tramped thoroughly
into the soil.

2. Include in the late summer
clean-up all fleshy-stemmed weeds
likely to harbor borers.

3. Induce neighbors to join in these measures, because borer moths
may travel long distances to lay their eggs.

4. Destroy the newly hatched borers by spraying sweet corn with rotenone, beginning when egg
masses on corn leaves show dark
with the near-emerging larva.

This enemy may attack corn in the tassels, leaf sheaths, ears or stalks. They cause tassels to break over and wilt. They invade the ears in much the same manner as ear worms. They sometimes feed downward into the stalks via the leaf sheaths.

GIVE CAPITAL DEFENSE PLAN

Washington, July 31 (AP)—The veil that has been draped over the question: "What will happen if Washington is bombed?" was lifted
a little this week.

In two separate announcements,
it was disclosed that:
A communication center, apparently to be used in case the Pentagon should ever be knocked out,
is to be built at and near Camp
Ritchie, Md.

The new Friendship Airport between Baltimore and Washington,
will be used to defend Washington,
said Senator Tydings (D-Md.), if there is a major war in which
"atomic bombs are thrown around."

The announcement on the communications center came from the Pentagon.

The Defense Department was tight-lipped on details, and merely said:

"Plans are going forward for the
in late summer.

Flowering Quince (Cydonia)—Because colors do not come true from seed, use of half-ripe cuttings in late summer is advised.

Forsythia—This lovely flowering shrub may be multiplied easily by starting immature cuttings in July and early August.

Holly—Here's a challenging shrub
to propagate. But use of partly mature cutting often proves successful.
Honeysuckle (Lonicera)—Almost
all varieties grow sturdily from greenwood cuttings.

Hydrangea—The hardy outdoor PeeGee as well as tender indoor strains permit multiplication from immature cuttings.

Mockorange—It may be a little late in the season, but a trial at once with green cuttings is worth the trouble. Late June and early July is the better time for this work.

Among other desirable woody plants which may be grown from summer cuttings are: Almost all the Viburnums (Snowballs so-called),
Pearlbush (Exochorda), Sycamore, Privets, almost all Roses, Rose of Sharon, the entire group of Spiraeas, Weigela, Yews, Retinospora, and Wisteria (if started later in the season).

Dilworth Opens Campaign Today

Lock Haven, Pa., July 31 (AP)— Richardson Dilworth, Democratic candidate for governor, opened a three-month campaign tour here
today which will take him into all

establishment of a supplemental communications installation at and nearby Camp Ritchie, Md. This site is now being used in part by the Maryland National Guard but may be repossessed by the Federal Government.

The Democratic candidate stoppe

a junket of northeastern counties.
The Philadelphia city treasure
decided on the mid-summer opening of his tour in order to visit a
many cross-road communities
possible between now and the November 7 general election.

Dilworth said he plans to confin
his appearance to informal "street

directly to as many mill and factor workers as possible. During the remainder of the current week he plans to visit 12 counties.

LARGE CROWD
ON HAND FOR LEGION OPENING

A large crowd attended the grand re-opening of the American Legion home of the Francis X. Elder Post, No. 121 on Saturday.

In the lower part of the annex, which was built on the rear of the modern post home are a game room and a bar. A stage, lounge room, new kitchen and a bar are located on the upper floor. Music was furnished and the Legionnaires and many guests enjoyed a gala time.

The Legion post dates back to 1920 when it was chartered with 18 members as Post 75. They were: William A. Lockwood, Louis L. Annan, Thomas C. Bittle, Clarence M. Baumgardner, Louis H. Stoner, M. Luther Kugler, Charles W. Kump, Charles C. Riffe, Frank W. Weant, William C. Shuff, Joseph W. Kerrigan, Clarence G. Pringle, George W. Wagerman, D. Stone, M. C. J. Albert Saffer, and Charles L. Sharrer.

Reactivated In 1937

In 1937 a second charter was granted after several years of inactivity. Francis X. Elder, a member of the 115th Infantry, Co. A, was the first Emmitsburgian to die defending his country in World War I. Therefore, the Legion members chose this volunteer, who was a native of this community, in naming Post 121.

For the first year of reorganization Lester Damuth was elected as the commander of the organization. The charter members in 1937 were: James Alvey, Guy C. Angell, J. Ralph Angell, Morris Barriack, Clarence Baumgardner, Raymond Baumgardner, C. C. Combs, Lester Damuth, Rev. Francis J. Dodd, Lester W. Fox, Clarence G. Pringle, David Galt, Edgar Freese, Vincent Hart-dagen, Jacob Houser, Luther Kelly, Harry Knight, Arthur Malloy, William Miller, Allen Rosenfeld, John Rosenfeld, Charles J. Rowe, Gerald Ryder, Arthur Starnier, William Sterbinsky, O. H. Stinson, Louis Stoner, Charles Troxell, Joseph Turner, Harry Valentine, Robert Valentine, George Wagerman, John Walter, and Curtis E. Weddle.

Several months ago the Legion voted to donate $1,000 to the Reformed church which was destroyed by fire. Last year it started an American Legion Junior baseball team which they are sponsoring again this season. Many civic minded projects are constantly being done by this worthwhile organization which is certainly an asset to the community of Emmitsburg and can always be depended upon to participate in notable projects when they arise.

A large group attended the laying of the cornerstone of the annex to be built on the rear of the Tom's Creek Methodist church, several miles east of Emmitsburg. This service was held at the church yesterday afternoon at 2 p.m. and the address was presented by the District Superintendent, Rev. William Wright, of Hagerstown. The plans include a recreation room to be used for social functions and a kitchen for suppers which they hope to be able to have. The second floor will be used for educational purposes.

Mrs. Valerie Overman of West Main street is spending sometime with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Edwards in Richmond, Va.

Cpl. John Paul Glass arrived in Bermuda on Wednesday of last week, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Glass, Emmitsburg R. D., disclosed today. Mrs. J. P. Glass of Oklahoma City, Okla., has been there for sometime awaiting the return of her husband.

Mrs. Stewart Annan of Hagerstown, is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Baumgardner and family of near Emmitsburg.

Miss Carrie Johnson of Salisbury, Pa., who has been a guest the past week of Miss Alice Taney of near Emmitsburg, visited over the weekend with Miss Lillian Musselman in Gettysburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bobanic and son of Aliquippa, Pa., are visiting with Mrs. Bobanic's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Warthen and family of West Main street.

The Youth choir of the Elias Lutheran church will meet Tuesday evening at the Parish house at 7 o'clock and the Adult choir immediately following their rehearsal.

Father Dies Saving
Life Of Son, 13

Waterford, Pa., July 31 (AP)—Walter Young, 41, of Erie, died last night saving his 13-year-old son from drowning.

Donald Young, 18, dragged both his father and brother, Walter, Jr., from French creek.

The young boy responded to treatment. His father did not. The coroner said the father may have died of heart attack or shock.

Young went to the aid of his son, Junior, who was being dragged under by a fast current. The father could not swim and he, too, was dragged under. Then, 18-year-old Donald swam into the stream and brought both to shore.

The 1906 Boston Red Sox lost 20 games in a row, 19 of them at home.

Penna. AMVETS
Close Convention

Johnstown, Pa., July 31 (AP)—The Pennsylvania department of the AMVETS (American Veterans of World War II) ended its convention yesterday by electing Henry Mahady of Latrobe commander. Mrs. June Abendsheim of Hanover was elected president of the auxiliary.

Delegates heard Senator Francis J. Myers (D-Pa.) warn that the proposed $100,000,000 boost in military spending and a new draft call for 100,000 men is "clearly not designed for Korea alone."

Myers explained the United States is getting ready to ward off any threats which may be made by Russia at what he described as the United States' "soft spots."

The AMVETS chose a woman as vice-commander at large. Grace Wenger of Lancaster is believed to be the first woman to hold a high state office in any veterans' group.

Miners, Police Seek
Missing Foreman

Pottsville, Pa., July 31 (AP)—Weary miners and state police continued their search today for a 42-year-old foreman at the Oak Hill stripping of the Capparell Stripping and Construction company.

Michael Petusky, of Shenandoah, Pa., disappeared Saturday after giving orders to two men, telling them where to place earth they were removing from a 40-foot-deep stripping.

The workers, James Burke, of Ashland, Pa., and Peter Ford, of Pottsville, said the last they saw of their foreman was walking along the edge of the stripping. The company employing Petusky sent 40 miners in search of the missing foreman over an area covered by a two mile radius.

Farm Pond Scene
Of Boy's Death

Coatesville, Pa., July 31 (AP)—A 16-year-old boy drowned in a farm pond yesterday despite the rescue efforts of a companion.

As Robert Keiter, Coatesville, R. 2, floundered in the pond on the Francis Hoffman farm, four miles west of Coatesville, 18-year-old Malcolm Long tried to pull him to safety.

Push Plans For Guarding Industries

Harrisburg, July 31 (AP)—Gov. James H. Duff today pushed plans for coordinating protection of Pennsylvania industrial plants against sabotage.

The Governor met here yesterday with a cross-section group of leaders in industry, labor and transportation to map plans for a statewide plant security program.

Duff told the leaders the importance of commonwealth industries from a strategic standpoint in case of attack cannot be overestimated. He said every means must be taken to insure that all plants and allied industrial establishments be given the fullest security attention.

After the meeting Duff said in a brief statement that there was "complete understanding both of the seriousness of the problem . . . and the measures to be taken." The visiting industrial leaders also were told of the nature and scope of the new civilian defense program which now is in the making.

Philadelphia, July 31 (AP) — In order to meet the railroad industry's current freight car requirements and the demands of rearmament the Pennsylvania railroad has announced it will purchase 5,000 new freight cars for some $27,000,000.

The railroad's program of new freight equipment now includes 21,989 gondola, box and covered hopper cars. President Walter S. Franklin said yesterday in disclosing the planned purchase.

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

Chapter 30

For one terrible minute I had the awful suspicion that maybe Beau had been right after all, and the Dumonts were a little mentally unbalanced. If Amedee was going to start babbling about three little strips of red cloth being the reason why half of his entire family had been murdered.

He must have guessed what was passing through my mind. "It's all right, Peter," he said quickly. "I'm not crazy. But I see the whole thing now, and we were dear wrong about it. Claude and Grandpere may have been killed because of what they knew, but Lee and Uncle Henri weren't. They were slated to go for an entirely different reason; so, I'm convinced were nearly the rest of us."

It seemed to me that being the prospective candidate for the receiving end of a murder was hardly the thing to look so jubilant about, and I said so. He sobered at once.

"I didn't mean it that way," he said. "But the danger's past, now that we know the truth. Of course, we'll have to produce some material evidence against our killer before we can prove anything. But I know where to get that; or rather Henri will. He and I will have to drive in to New Orleans at once. Will you be afraid to wait here until we get back?"

"Of course not," I answered with dignity. "But you said something just now that we know the truth. Wasn't that a slight overstatement?" "Sorry," he apologized. "I forgot that you didn't know. The murderer is—Then he stopped. 'I'd better not tell you,' he said more gravely. If you knew, and should betray by a word or even a look that you knew—well, I'm not taking any chances."

I could have jumped up and down in sheer exasperation, except that I realized he was right.

That evening immediately after supper Amedee and Henri set out for New Orleans, having explained for the benefit of the others that they were going to question the psychiatrist, Dr. Brennaman.

It was later that evening that Lewis Hays drew me aside.

"Miss Peter," he began, "I suppose you don't believe in this idiotic insanity idea of Beau's any more than I do; and Dede and Henri must have some doubts about it, too, or they wouldn't have gone to see this psychiatrist, Brennaman. But do you think that he'll be able to give you definite proof that there's nothing to it? Proof, I mean, that will convince the others?"

There were deep lines of worry in his face, and I thought I understood the reason for them.

"You mean—Pick?" I asked.

He nodded.

"This afternoon," he said, "I asked her if we couldn't be married immediately, so that I could take her away from all this. But she told me that with this shadow of insanity hanging over the family, none of the Dumonts had the right to marry."

He looked so utterly wretched that I felt sorry for him.

"Pick will change her mind as soon as she's had time to think clearly," I offered by way of consolation.

But he didn't look as though that had helped much.

Cousin Jeff came into the room.

"Peter, will you go up and see what you can do with Aunt Delphine?" Cousin Jeff asked. "She's got the idea into her head that Amedee's been arrested, and she's demanding to be taken to the sheriff at once."

"That's all right," I assured him. "I'll see what I can do with her."

I found Aunt Delphine in her room, wearing her hat and coat over her nightgown.

"Peter, you'll take me to Jeff Wilkes, won't you?" she pleaded, fastening both hands about my arm. "I've got to tell before he does anything to Dede."

I urged her gently back to her chair, and removed the hat.

"Sheriff Wilkes isn't going to do anything to Dede, Aunt Delphine," I assured her. "Dede and Henri have merely gone to—"

But she interrupted me.

"No," she said, putting the hat back on again. "But he will. I thought they had sent him for Lee and the others, but they didn't. So now I'm going to tell before he can hurt Dede."

"Aunt Delphine," I demanded, trying to control my tingling excitement, "what is it you are going to tell?"

But her attention had strayed to something behind me. Turning I saw Beau standing in the open doorway.

"Sorry," he apologized, preparing to withdraw again. "When I first glanced in, I thought you were Pick."

"Is anything wrong?" I asked.

"There's just been a telephone call from Duval in New Orleans," he replied. "Dede and Henri are with him, and they want me to drive in at once."

Was this merely a ruse to draw Beau away from the house? If the latter, it could mean either that—

"You'll have to hurry if you want to reach New Orleans before ten o'clock," I observed, suddenly realizing that I had been standing for several seconds with my mouth open, and that it must have looked odd to him. In any case, "It's after nine now."

After considerable persuasion, I finally managed to get Aunt Delphine tucked into bed, minus the hat and coat. Bobby met me in the lower hall.

"What's going on around here?" I just saw Beau drive away in one of the cars, and he looked as though he was going somewhere in a hurry."

"He's going to New Orleans," I replied. "Mr. Duval sent for him." I sank down wearily upon the bottom step. "Two murders and an insanity scare all in one day," I complained, "not to mention various and sundry other alarms and excursions! Now all we need around here to top it off is a good fire."

And believe it or not, within the next hour we had that, too!

Chapter 31

We had barely finished looking up the house for the night—including, this time, the outside opening to the woodbox, which I attended to myself—when Uncle Bountiful rushed up upon the gallery shouting that the stables were burning!

Cousin Jeff and Lewis Hays rushed out of the house at once, while Bobby and Pick and I followed more slowly.

For the next 15 minutes or so we just stood there with that desperately helpless feeling you get when you're forced to look on at wanton destruction, knowing that you can do nothing about it.

All of a sudden a thought exploded in my head with violence. The fire had drawn all of us away from the house—all, that is, except Aunt Delphine. And Aunt Delphine had just announced that evening that she knew something about the murderers, and wanted to tell it to the sheriff!

"Oh, Heaven! It's all been a trick to get us away!" I cried. "Aunt Delphine! She's back there alone!" I flung over my shoulder as I turned and started racing back toward the house.

I found the front door standing half open when I reached it, and I couldn't remember whether we had left it that way or not.

"Aunt Delphine!" I called, then held my breath.

To my infinite relief, her voice answered me.

"Peter! It's you, cherie? Come and stay with me."

Then I felt her reach up and tug at my sleeve for me to bend closer.

"He's here," she whispered quickly. "He's hiding over there in the closet."

"Who, Aunt Delphine?" I asked. She breathed a single word.

Only her poor, misguided imagination again! I started to draw a sigh of relief, only to have it turn into a gasp midway. She hadn't said what we had all thought she had been saying ever since Lee's death; she had said—

Too late I heard the creak of a board directly behind me. I gripped the wrist of the hand about my throat and pulled downward and outward with all my strength.

That gave me just enough room for a nice, backward kick. My lungs were beginning to feel as though they were going to burst, while objects swam before my eyes. I saw two Aunt Delphines spring out of two beds and fling themselves at my assailant. But he flung them both aside with one sweep of his arm; and they crumpled back upon the bed, where they merged and became one again.

But to do it, he had been obliged to remove his hand for an instant from my mouth. That was all I needed. I let the breath out of my tortured lungs in a yell that would have done credit to an air raid siren during the war.

"You little hellion!" the man snarled, and tried to clamp the hand back over my mouth. But I managed to catch it side on, and I brought my teeth together with a force that made my jaws ache. The man let out a yell that ran a good second to my own, and let go of my throat. Then his clenched fist struck the side of my head with a force that made me see stars, but I hung on.

I closed my eyes and prepared to go down fighting—or biting, to be exact. And then at the final second, help arrived.

"Put up your hands," Pick's voice commanded from the doorway. "I've got Grandpere's squirrel gun, and you know I can use it."

The man twisted his body half-way around.

"Don't be a fool, Pick," he said sharply. "There's been a mistake. If you'll put that gun down, I'll explain."

"You're right," Pick said grimly.

"There has been a mistake, and you made it. I'm keeping this gun right the way it is, and you can give your explanation to the sheriff. Bobby's downstairs phoning for him now."

Pick stepped inside the room, and keeping well out of his reach, motioned for him to precede her back into the hall.

As we reached the head of the stairs, Bobby came out of the room that had been Colonel Dumont's office and into the lower hall.

"Oh!" she gasped. "Not—not—"

For one split second, Pick's attention was diverted to Bobby. Our prisoner realized it. With what seemed to be a single leap, he was down the stairs and disappearing through the open door of the smaller drawing room.

"Where did he get to?" Bobby demanded blankly.

"He got away," Pick answered. Her voice sounded bitter with regret.

"No, he didn't!" I cried, and leaped upon the top of the woodbox, perching there feet and all. "He tried to get out this way the same as he did last night after he'd killed Lee. But I snapped the padlock on the other side when we locked up. We've got him!"

As if in confirmation, the lid of the woodbox gave a convulsive heave beneath me, but I managed to stay put. A look of grim satisfaction leaped into Pick's eyes. She turned to Bobby.

"Run down to the stables and call some of the boys," she directed. "Peter and I will hold him here till you get back."

Suddenly the front door was thrown violently open, and we heard Beau's voice in the hall.

"What's going on here when I reached New Orleans and found that Dede and Henri hadn't sent for me—"

"Oh, Beau!" Pick broke in. Her voice was tremulous with relief. "He tried to kill Aunt Delphine and Peter tonight, and—"

"Mille tonnerres!" That was Amedee.

"Peter!" he exclaimed in amazement. "What are you doing there?" "Keeping the lid on things," I answered. "Literally."

He understood at once. "You can come out now, Hays," he said. (To be continued.)

Pa. To Have Big Role In Rail Car Building

Pittsburgh, July 31 (AP)—The Keystone state will play a major role in a huge railroad car building program now getting under way. Many Pennsylvania plants already have received big orders. They will work with steel that for the most part is made in this state.

Many of the orders come from the big rail lines that serve Pennsylvania.

William T. Farley, president of the Association of American Railroads, set the carriers' new car goal at 122,000. Also thousands of old cars will be rebuilt.

HARRY E. BAIR TO BE DELEGATE

An executive meeting of the Adams County Council of Christian Education was held Friday evening at the YWCA with the new president, Elmer J. Yoder, Biglerville, in charge.

Mr. Yoder appointed the following committee to serve on the preparation of the year book: Roy R. Starner, Bendersville; T. J. Winebrenner, Gettysburg, and Miss Alma Miller, Biglerville. Mr. Yoder will serve as an ex-officio member.

Harry E. Bair, Hanover, was appointed the official delegate from the county for the state convention to be held in Allentown on October 10, 11 and 12.

Members of the board were told of the convention to be held in Toronto, Canada, from August 10 to August 16. Any person interested in attending the convention is to notify the president of his respective district for arrangements or any additional information. It was stated that already two bus loads will leave for the convention from Adams county.

The Rev. Dr. Norman S. Wolf, Fairfield, superintendent of youth council work in the county, announced that the second annual convention of the Adams County Young People's Council will be held at Trinity Reformed church, Gettysburg, in October. He also stated that nine young people from the county have returned recently from Camp Kanastota. It was agreed not to meet in the month of August.

Dr. Harr, Former Pa. Banking Head, Dies

Philadelphia, July 31 (AP)—A prominent Philadelphia businessman and economist, Dr. Luther A. Harr, 54, died yesterday at his home.

Harr resigned as state secretary of banking in 1937 and successfully ran for city treasurer of Philadelphia where he served four years.

Author of three text books on money and banking, Dr. Harr was financial adviser to the city of Camden, N. J., and to banks in Atlantic City, N. J., following the 1929 financial collapse.

Dr. Harr served as secretary of banking under former Governor George H. Earle and in 1940 managed the election campaign of Joseph H. Guffy for re-election to the U.S. Senate. He was a former treasurer of the Philadelphia Record and had been a professor of banking at the Wharton school of the University of Pennsylvania.

Truman Stands Pat On Economic Controls

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Speaker Rayburn said today that President Truman still thinks he has asked for enough economic controls but probably wouldn't veto a bill providing extras ones.

Congressional leaders discussed the question of domestic controls with Mr. Truman because of rising sentiment in Congress to go beyond the steps he has suggested.

Many legislators want to provide at least stand by authority for price and wage controls and rationing.

Rayburn, Texas Democrat, was asked what the President might do if Congress voted him the extra authority. He said: "I don't think he would veto a bill on that account."

Susquehanna

its frothing rapids, its winding course, its wooded islands, its broad reaches and its vast man-made dams.

In an introductory chapter she writes: "Looking down upon Pine creek flowing a thousand feet below, upon the meeting of the waters at Tioga, or Northumberland or Duncannon, or upon the wide expanse of the river at Liverpool or Conne-Johela, or the man-made lakes behind the Safe Harbor and Conowingo dams, one may apostrophize the Susquehanna and pray that her very different beauty be preserved."

The book is divided into sections on the North Branch, the West Branch, the Juniata, the Main river, Northumberland and Harrisburg; Canals, Steamboats and Pirates and the Main River, Harrisburg to the Maryland border.

Scene For Two Recent Books
Many of the photographs that brighten the 236 pages of the new volume were made especially for this book. Several air views are included and the frontispiece is a full color picture of the Susquehanna at Dauphin Narrows, above Harrisburg. On the back jacket cover is a scene along the North Branch, near Towanda.

The book is dedicated "To my Friend, Alice R. Eaton." Miss Eaton has for many years served the Harrisburg Public Library as its librarian. Mrs. Lewars makes a number of acknowledgments of assistance in preparation of the book. Those named include Miss Eaton, Paul Singmaster of Gettysburg, brother of the author; Miss Nina Storick, Miss Margaret McMillan, Mrs. Edith Fellenbaum, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Bowen and Miss Harriet B. Krauth. The Susquehanna furnished the scene for two other recent books by Mrs. Lewars, "The Isle of Que" and "I Heard of a River." From her childhood Mrs. Lewars has been a lover of the Susquehanna.

KOREAN FIGHT MAY SPUR ON WORLD UNITY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

One recoll from examining war as a possible agent of good.

Still, the trend of events does suggest that the Korean upheaval may in some ways prove to have been a blessing in disguise. For the very crudeness of this assault is drawing high-minded nations together in the interests of peace and justice.

The outstanding demonstration of this trend, of course, has been the action of the United Nations in applying military sanctions against the invaders of southern Korea. That was an unprecedented move—one which was evaded by the League of Nations, with fatal consequences to that organization.

This strong-arm move by the U.N. probably has done more to strengthen the U. N. than any other event. It means that the non-Communist members of the peace organization have been drawn closer together. Take a specific case for illustration.

Turkey has offered 4,500 fully armed troops for the Korean fighting whenever the U.N. asks for them. Now that was a mighty courageous decision for the government to make—a historic gesture.

Why? Well, because Turkey sits right under the big guns of a very critical to use a euphemistic expression) Russia. The two countries have bitter differences over control of the Dardanelles waterway. And the sending of Turkish troops to Korea to fight Moscow's North Korean protege might easily draw from Moscow the charge that it was an action unfriendly to the Soviet Union, though it wasn't intended that way.

Lone Wolf Drawn In
So Turkey, the Lone Wolf, is drawn closer to the western world by the Korean imbroglio.

Then take the case of the Atlantic Pact partners. These 12 nations, spurred by the dangers displayed through the attack on Korea, are working feverishly to construct a unified army out of the individual armed forces of the western European states. They are putting the finishing touches on a far closer collaboration than they had envisaged at the outset of their venture. And that collaboration is not only military but includes other fields.

The Korean assault not only is spurring the unity of peace minded nations but is reaching down to the rank and file of their citizens. An example of this is seen in the meeting of the AFL-CIO Unity Committee at Washington.

Spokesmen for the committee have announced that a merger of America's rival labor factions has become a "virtual must" because of the world march of communism. In another statement the committee said: "Labor in America is completely united against Communist aggression."

Thus it would seem that good can result from the Korean war. It may have the effect in the long run of drawing us closer to the ideal of world unity.

Letters announcing the homecoming service to be held at Christ Reformed church, near Littlestown, on Sunday, September 3, at 10:30 a.m. in connection with the Sesquicentennial of Adams county, were distributed Sunday morning. Committee meetings were held Sunday morning at Christ church to plan for the roast chicken and ham dinners to be served at the annual picnic next Saturday in the church grove beginning at 4 p.m. Harvey W. Schwartz and Mrs. Edwin A. Rebert, co-chairmen of the supper committee made a request for helpers, both men and women to come to the church grove on Friday, beginning at noon to assist in the work. They also request that the members donate the use of their roasters for preparing the chickens.

Ask Extension Of Pa. Bonus Deadline

Harrisburg, July 31 (AP)—The State Bonus Bureau will seek an extension of the July 1 deadline for filing applications for the commonwealth's $500,000,000 soldiers' bonus.

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Weber, state adjutant general, and bonus chief, said he will ask the 1951 legislature to extend the deadline to permit some 20,000 tardy applicants to receive a bonus.

In the meantime, Weber said all World War II applications filed after the July 1 deadline will continue to be accepted. These will be processed completely and put away on file in the event the legislature authorizes payments.

Weber said he felt such an extension was justified in view of the fact that the deadline for payment of the World War I bonus was extended six times by the legislature.
